

Rate Yourself as to Your ATTITUDE

Make a dot in the appropriate space after each question. Be absolutely honest but be fair to yourself.

How Do You Think You Rate?	High	Above Average	Average	Below Average	Low
In willingness to accept criticism?
In openness of mind to other people's ideas or plans?
In readiness to help other people with their work or problems?
In patiently waiting your turn?
In willingness to think and work first of all for the good of the group?
In willingness to be taught or coached?
In ability to discuss without losing your patience or temper?
In readiness to seek counsel from others who may know more than you?
In being charitable or tolerant toward other people's shortcomings?
In loyalty to your employer and your associates?
In willingness to stay after hours if necessary to finish a needed job?
In willingness to share your ideas and experiences with others?
In being able to "take it" when a vote or decision goes against you?
In taking pleasure in the success or progress of other people?
In willingness to own up to your own mistakes?
In desiring to be before people?
The desire to grow in your Christianity?

We cannot all have great talent or ability, but it is within our power to meet every situation in life with the right attitude toward other people and circumstances.

No matter where you go or what you do, you will always have to work with people. Be sure your own heart and attitude is right before you try to deal with someone else and their problems.